If you played Football in High School, and are interested in helping UGA researchers better understand concussion, WE NEED YOU!

UGA researchers are recruiting past high school football players for a study on brain function. We are recruiting persons with and without a history of concussions.

Criteria: Between 40 and 65 years old, reasonable health. Willing to participate in an interview, paper and pencil cognitive testing, and MRI scanning.

Participants will be paid a small honorarium for their time.
